Images of Christianity's central figure across the centuries have ranged so broadly as to make of him a seeming Rorschach test into which sects, churches, cultures, and individuals read their own meanings and create their own Jesus. This is so even among disciples, whether one considers the history of Christian theology, art, or literature. Historical and literary criticism of the New Testament texts, though crucial, has not resolved the matter, but has left us a fractured and disparate set of portraits. How might informed people of faith respond to all this?
- 3:00 pm – 4:30 pm Panel: LORD, WHEN SAW WE THEE? DAILY ENCOUNTERS WITH CHRIST
Speakers include Matthew Bowman, Sarah Collett, Lloyd Pendleton, and Marian Edmunds-Allen. Moderator: Adam Ford.
- 4:45 pm-5:15 pm MAKING CHRIST YOUR COMPASS YOUR WAY
by Russell Osmond
